Setting Small Goals

Setting up some small goals for yourself every day, such as cleaning up your house, reading a chapter of a book, or calling your friend for a chat and so on, can help you attain a sense of control and refresh your mind.

Very bad (1 heart), very good (10 hearts)

Day 2

My Thoughts and Feelings

We come across different people and things - both good and bad - in everyday life. These experiences may change how we look at things and handle them. Thinking about your past can be a good way to better understand yourself.

My feeling(s) is/are _____

My bodily sensation(s) is/are _____

My Spiritual Oasis

Here, we are going to introduce you the practice of “mindfulness”, an exercise that brings you peacefulness and allows you to stay at the present moment.

What is mindfulness?

Mindfulness can improve psychological well-being. You can pay attention to the present moment by observing your bodily sensations, thoughts, feelings, and the surroundings without making any judgment. Through mindfulness practice, you can get in touch with your own thoughts and emotions with a peace of mind, focus on them, and respond accordingly.

How I feel after completing the goal:

Mindfulness Tips:

You can type and search “mindfulness” online for more information and practice guidance. Some common exercises are mindful breathing and mindful eating.

I am an Artist

When we were little, we might be able to draw anything randomly, as long as there were papers and pencils. The definition of art is very broad and boundless. You can create art pieces even if you are not a professional artist. Art is an expression that allows you to present your ideas. Let's regain and show your art talent today!

Do You Still Remember Me?

Is there anyone whom you have not been in touch with for a while? Family members? Friends? You can take this opportunity to make a call or send a text message to reach out to them, see if they are doing well and update each others' current lives. By doing so, you can feel more connected to people.

Fun Family Games

Playing games together can be relaxing and bring your family closer. Look for different kinds of games as activities that you all enjoy, such as card games or board games. If you are living alone, you can also find some fun things to do, like online or mobile games.

Day 8

My Thoughts and Emotions

want to be happy? It's very simple! Research tells us that we can lead happier lives if we show gratitude to ourselves and others. Let's think about what make you feel grateful in life!

Day 9

Relearning Old Skills

Do you remember things you used to be good at? Have you sort of forgotten how to do them since then? Some of your skills may get a bit rusty if you don't practice them for awhile, like cooking, making origami, or needlework. In fact, through rediscovering these skills, you may find that you remember much more than you think!

Day 10

I am a Bookworm

Living in a vibrant and busy city, we may often lack time to enjoy reading. Do you have an unfinished book just sitting in the corner, or any books that you would like to read again? Now is a better time than ever!

Day 12

My Thoughts and Emotions

Sometimes it is rather difficult for us to express our gratitude towards others, especially the ones close to us like our family members, friends, teachers and so on. Yet, you will become happier by expressing your gratefulness to them.

Day 13

I Love Movies

Watching movies is a fun way to spend your time. You can be fully immersed in the experience and escape from the realities of life for a short while. Are there any movies that you have been meaning to watch, but never got around to it? Any classic? Cartoons? Let's search for them again!
